

Workshop 1

Internationalization in teaching – making use of the diversity of students. In this interactive workshop, we will explore the challenges and opportunities of heterogeneous groups of students. We will particularly focus on how to constructively make use of and profit from this diversity in the student body for our teaching. The workshop is primarily designed for teaching staff of the FSU, but everybody else is most welcome too.

Workshop 2 (upon request in English)

International students – what competencies do they need to successfully complete their studies? International students face major challenges when coming to study in Germany. This is proven by high numbers of drop-outs throughout the country.

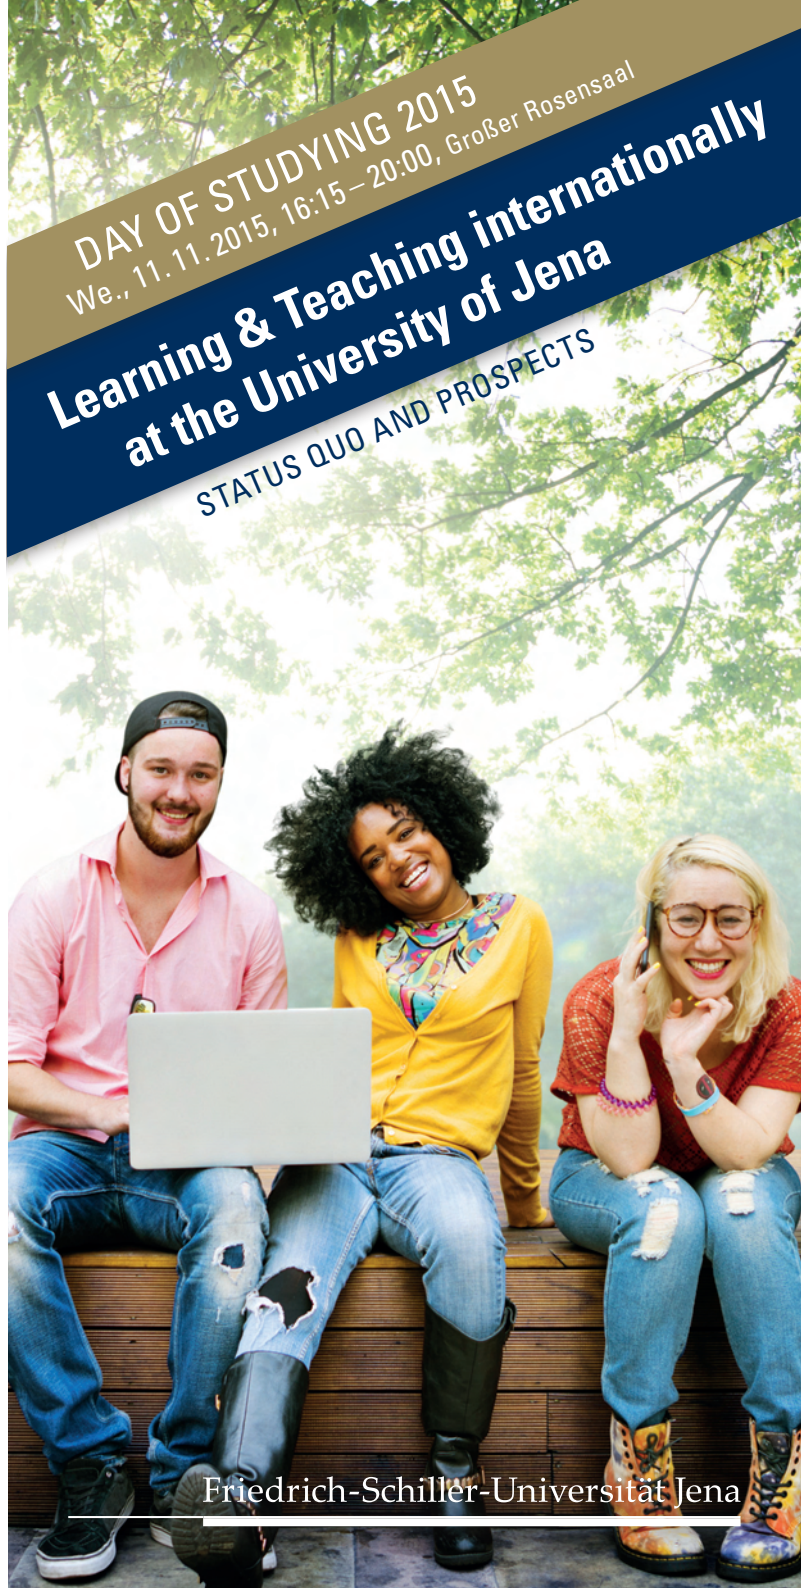

This workshop wants to offer international students an overview of the special skills and competencies they will need to successfully complete a study programme here in Germany. We will present the new concept of the Faculty of Philosophy for the support of students, and will discuss how support offered to international students could be improved. Teaching staff and German students offering support and mentoring to international students will get ideas of how to support international students so that they can successfully complete their studies here. We will also collect and note suggestions and ideas for the further work on this subject at the Friedrich Schiller University Jena.

During the breaks: Information booths of the following central services and institutions

- International Office
- Central Advice Service / Master Service Centre
- Writing Centre (Schreibzentrum)
- Language Centre
- LehreLernen (service centre for higher education didactics)
- Working Group on International Students of the Students Council
- Student Welfare Services (Studentenwerk)
- Ombudsperson for international students
- International Centre
- Int.Ro
